

To be included is worth a lot, we all are worth a lot!

Michelle Bermudez

"Even more when we commemorate a special day in which is reflected the struggle of friends, family and especially the person with a disability.

Because being a person with a disability does not mean it is just a personal struggle, it also includes your family and friends who support you and give you the strength to move forward, to overcome barriers that society has imposed on you, since we are capable of doing everything that people do "as normal."

Now, imagine how good it feels that a Foundation starts to think of you. People who decided to put themselves in your shoes and decide to commemorate a day in which is framed the survival and struggle of many of us, and the immense joy of knowing that we are important and part of this society.

Thank you for the infinite support and for making other people aware through this activity the value we have and the good we can do for our community too."

Festival of Inclusion

For the first time in Berlin, the people celebrated the Festival of Inclusion; a day to celebrate persons with disabilities. Many of the people served by the Foundation were in attendance.
